HUMAN RIGHTS

UNIVERSAL DECLARATION OF HUMAN RIGHTS

WHAT DOES “HUMAN RIGHT” MEAN?

- Human rights are based on the principle of respect for the individual.
- Their basic premise is that every person is a moral and rational being who deserves to be treated with dignity.
- They are called human rights because they are universal.

HISTORY OF HUMAN RIGHTS

- in 1948 for the first time in history the rights and freedoms that every human deserves was written in an official document, the “Universal Declaration of Human Rights”, by the United Nations General assembly.

A MORAL REVOLUTION

- Through this document the entire world had a barrier which helped to measure and distinguish what was the wrong and what was the right
- it encouraged people to stand up and fight against the violations of these rights, against oppression and ignorance.
- this Declaration teaches and educates the citizens of the world to promote respect for these rights and freedoms.

WHEN HUMAN RIGHTS ARE VIOLATED

CHINA

- A perfect example of a country where human rights aren't respected is China.
- The constitution says that every human is equal in front of law and everyone should be able to express his own and personal opinion, whilst in China these rights aren't respected under many points:
 - there is death penalty
 - one child policy (people can't make their own decisions)
 - China still is under a dictatorship (only some news can be spread)
 - lack of religious freedom (repression of the Christians)
 - discrimination against rural workers and ethnic minorities .

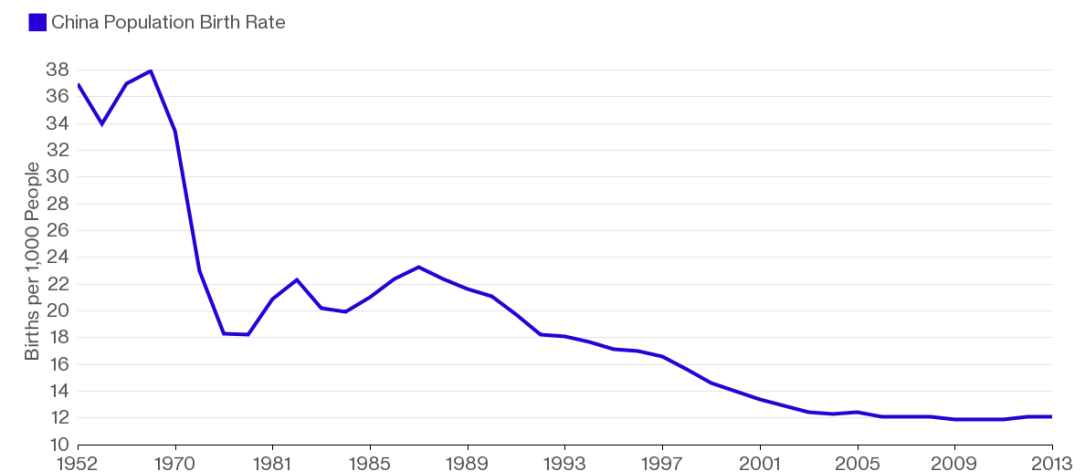

WHEN HUMAN RIGHTS ARE VIOLATED

Despite China from the outside doesn't seem to have problems the government is still trying to repress the human rights sustaining groups and to repress people that are trying to express their opinions

HUMAN RIGHTS ACCORDING TO THE NEW GENERATION

Human rights are fundamental for the future of the world.

They have spread all over the world but in some countries they are still violated

Mario Bonini

Human rights are important and countries should always respect them. No one should be deprived of human rights.

Human inequalities can cause psychological damage to those who are victims of them.

Giovanni Deiudicibus

Every citizen is entitled to the respect of his rights by his country

Giorgio Padovano

HUMAN RIGHTS ACCORDING TO THE NEW GENERATION

These rights represent the inalienable rights of human rights, that are fundamental for our liberty.

Every man and woman has the right to always be respected, independently of his ethnicity, religion or belief.

Sofia dell'Aguzzo

Discriminations are everywhere.

People judge as if there is something wrong with being oneself.

There must be an international day to remember the ignorance of those who discriminate.

Lavinia Bono

I think it's important to support the principle that women should have "full equality of rights".

People should start taking real consideration of human rights

Carola Filippone

HUMAN RIGHTS ACCORDING TO THE NEW GENERATION

I am convinced that human rights are sacred and inviolable and ignoring or disrespecting them is one of the most cruel acts that exists.

We all have rights and no one should be left behind for any reason in the world.

Alessio Parente

Human rights are very important, even if in some countries are unfortunately not respected.

They should be strengthened because respecting each other helps to improve the community and remove discrimination.

Margherita Gessi

They help us eliminating discrimination and it's right because diversity must be valued by the whole world.

We don't have to judge people because we shouldn't do to others what you wouldn't want to be done to you

Alice De Paolis

Human rights aren't respected, especially in Middle East

We should take actions like making independent organisations

Make everyone aware of the current situation and of how people can change it
